

What's in your
IT closet?

ETHOS
Dynamics

If you have a pair of vintage Levi's 501's, then there is a chance your investment will go up in price, but if we are talking about your IT assets like servers/networking/storage hardware then the value of those items is only heading in one direction... Down. How fast the value of that hardware declines is generally out of your hands. Unlike those barely worn jeans or a pristine vintage mustang the time to evaluate letting go of your used or decommissioned IT assets is sooner rather than later.

How long has that IT closet been a gear graveyard?

Do you only clear it out when you cannot push the door open anymore?

Are you thinking about IT asset decommissioning but have no idea what you would do with the remaining gear?

Maintaining IT infrastructure involves a constant game of out with the old and in with the new or newer. That process can be intimidating if not overwhelming...

Ethos Dynamics is here to help.

Not only can we appraise the equipment, we can also provide data destruction certificates for all HDDs. If you do not have an inventory of what you have collected, Ethos can manage all packing and logistics and send a full audit report once we receive your equipment in our Atlanta location, or any of our other audit facilities. If you decide to accept our offer you can either get a check or put that money towards future Ethos purchases, further stretching your IT budget since there is no capital outlay.

While our main areas of focus are on datacenter and enterprise class networking, storage and servers, we can also assist with your laptop, desktop and associate device inventories. Ethos should be the first call you make when optimizing IT asset value is of paramount concern.

Ethos has been a fantastic partner for Liquid's IT needs. They always give honest suggestions based on our needs, even if it is less expensive. They also have an awesome 3rd party maintenance program. They delivered a power supply on Christmas Eve into NYC in an hour to make sure our staff could get it installed and still be home for the holidays.”
